

CAS 250: Small Group Communications

This class is required to work in teams to create videos based on topics from history. The project is a collaboration of departments from Communications, History, Media Commons, and Library Science. Lectures will be on class time. The students then work together on their projects using the mini iPads to shoot and edit their videos. The devices work well for what is needed to accomplish the videos. Each video is graded and the best ones are sent to our research fair.